George L. Sullivan

A tall, gaunt man, wearing a suit to match the color of his steel-grey hair and having the savor of the West steps from Montgomery Laboratory for the last time. Santa Clara's ground has felt the footsteps of George L. Sullivan, Dean of the College of Engineering for forty-three years and is loath to lose their tread.

In his four decades at Santa Clara, Dean Sullivan has been known as a skilled designer, a shrewd businessman, a respected consultant, a great educator. But the most important role he has played in life is that of a molder of men. George Sullivan's engineers are known throughout the country, and his influence on the profession is never to be forgotten.

For producing so many men that have improved the engineering profession, for so carefully executing the purpose of the University in "molding men after the model of the man-God," for playing a major role in the history of the University, we, of Santa Clara respectfully dedicate this issue to him.

In Memoriam

Eugene M. Bacigalupi, S.J.

In its one hundred and four year history, the University of Santa Clara has seen many professors and priests pass under its arbors and through its classroom doors. But few have left so strong an imprint upon its students and faculty as Father Eugene M. Bacigalupi, S.J. Known affectionately by his many friends as Father Baci, he died in San Jose's O'Connor Hospital on August 25, 1954 at the age of seventy-three.

He was Head of the Physics Department at Santa Clara from 1925 until 1954. For over a score of years he was the chaplain at Agnew State Hospital, saying Mass, Hearing Confessions and making frequent sick calls. He was commended on his outstanding work at Agnew by none other than Father R. Ledochowski, then General of the Society of Jesus, in a personal letter of congratulation and appreciation.

In the name of the Associated Students of the University of Santa Clara, past and present, the staff of the 1955 Redwood consider it an honor to dedicate this work to Father Eugene M. Bacigalupi, S.J., scientist, patron of the arts, teacher and priest of God. RIP.

REDWOOD

De Saisset Museum—1955

Foreword

The academic year 1954-55 has been a year of marked progress and change for Santa Clara. It is reflected in numerous ways. It is seen in the scope of religious and social activities that the year produced. It is seen in the advances made by student government. It is seen on the Mission Grounds themselves, for even the new Art Museum stands in mute testimony to this progress, this change. Santa Clara is truly expanding—but this is not to say that progression and change have made Santa Clara a different university. The same tradition, the same spirit remains—they are growing.

It is the sincere hope of the editors of 1955 Redwood that they can recapture in word and picture this year of progress.

President's Message

The full importance of a man's life is not found in some one or few unusual deeds, but rather in the sum of all the daily and seemingly prosaic concerns which drew his mind, knew his interest, and won his energies; the Great Deeds, if they come, are but the outcome of the diurnal. As Emerson once said, "no man has learned anything rightly until he knows that everyday is Doomsday," that every bush is aflame with God; but only he who has eyes to see takes off his shoes.

Here, in retrospect of much lesser people but of a very important year, the Redwood respectfully recalls the "daily events that made them men." To this review it is a pleasant privilege to add the sub-caption: "and these shall grow and live forever in the men which they have made"; for Doomsday is but the loosened naming of Domonus Day: The Day of the Lord.

Rev. Herman J. Hauck, S.J.

Vice Presidents

Though less seen by the students than many another member of the faculty, Father Joseph Diebels is nonetheless one of the students' sincerest benefactors. As Academic Vice-President, Father Diebels' special responsibility is to see to the fruitful formal education for each one of us who are students at Santa Clara. In addition to arranging classes, Father Diebels is also the general director of all academic organizations and applied arts. More than this, Father has a real interest in true student government, and all student affairs. His interest in our responsible progress has been well manifested.

Father Diebels was ordained in 1943, after which he took graduate studies in Theology at Woodstock College in Maryland, and then spent seven years at the University of San Francisco. For the past two years he has been here at Santa Clara University, where he has been working dedicatedly, and much to our appreciation.

Rev. Joseph Diebels, S.J.
Academic Vice-President

Rev. Raymond J. Kelley, S.J.
Vice-President of Student Activities

Talented as a cartoonist, noted for his sociability and popularity, Father Raymond J. Kelley, S.J., has maintained a capable hand over matters of discipline, his specific duty here at the University. But Father Kelley's duty has never stopped at the regulation book. His personal interest in the individual student and the student body in general has been felt by all who have come into contact with him, whether it be in the planning of a student organization or a matter of school regulations or simply a personal problem. By his understanding of the students needs and aspirations, by his willingness to work with the student, for the good of the student, he has been known, admired, and well respected. We of Santa Clara express our gratitude to this servant of God and man.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

Dean James A. King, S.J.

Among the four colleges in the University, the College of Arts and Sciences has the greatest enrollment. The capable guiding light for this portion of the student body, is the Reverend J. A. King S.J. Under the direction of Father King, the College of Arts continues to produce "the well educated man," from its wide curriculum of education. The increasing number of successful men, graduated each year from the College of Arts, are a growing proof that the liberal education, received in this division of the University, is one of great worth and value.

Santa Clara's First Rhodes' Scholar

Arthur H. Hayes, Jr.

Shortly after six o'clock on December 11, 1954, a thin, blond Santa Claran was informed that he was the first student in the history of his school to receive one of the country's most coveted academic awards—The Rhodes' Scholarship.

To Arthur Hull Hays, Jr., though, this honor marked only the climax of a distinguished college career; distinguished in extracurriculars—including a remarkable slice of campus organizations, distinguished in accomplishment—debator, orator, actor par excellence.

Competent, quiet, serious, with a liberal dash of wit, Art will take to Oxford with him a love of the classics, tennis and wood-working, a rounded personality and a likeable smile that will make him a becoming ambassador from the West and Santa Clara.

Returning from a year's leave of absence spent teaching at the Harvard Graduate School of Business, Dean Charles J. Dirksen resumed his duties at Santa Clara. With him Dean Dirksen brought back a new and enlightened system of the techniques of Business Administration to maintain the high caliber of the Santa Clara Business School and provide well-trained, forward looking young men for the fields of business.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

Dean George L. Sullivan

The College of Engineering in the University of Santa Clara was founded to give young men an opportunity to prepare for their profession in an environment and atmosphere conducive to cultural and moral development.

Nationally published periodicals, technical movies, field trips, interviews, lectures have contributed in producing the well-informed engineering student of Santa Clara.

For the second consecutive year, all the graduates from the school of law have passed the examination given by the State Board of Bar Examiners. These two 100% groups went to place Santa Clara highest in the state over a three-year period. The faculty and students of the law school are proud of those graduates and hope to continue the precedent now set down.

Senior Class President

The Seniors, being generally responsible for the leadership of the Associated Student Body, nurtured themselves spiritually, academically, and socially until they were able to command the enveloping requirements of college life. High positions in student government, its committees and organizations were naturally filled by Senior classmen—their time and energy being realized in the greatly autonomous student life.

Class business was handled chiefly by the men elected in last year's general elections. The main responsibility for Senior Week went to John Wade, Class President, who by virtue of that title was also placed head of the Student Problems Committee. Assisting John in the over-all preparation for the Senior Retreat, Ball, Parents Dinner, and Graduation were the Class Vice-President, Bill Wiswall, its Secretary, John Slekar, Donald Petersen the Treasurer, and Andrew Smolich, Sergeant-at-arms.

The men of the class of 1955 have seen Santa Clara safely through two years of trial imposed upon it by the demise of Intercollegiate Football on its campus. It is correct to assume that after living together four years under such close association, these men have joined themselves fraternally under an extraordinary devotion to their Alma Mater.

'54, '55 was a good year for the Dynam C Class of '56. Under the more than capable leadership of Frank Schober the class experienced a rejuvenation of the old spirit. With the assistance of the other class officers Schober outlined a class social program which was excellent. Mixers, class picnics and various other social events supplemented the school calendar.

The Junior Prom climaxed the social year for the Dynamos. It was a tremendous affair and generally regarded as one of the best to have ever been presented.

Academically the third year men proved outstanding. More than a few repeatedly made the President's Honor Roll.

Due to the enthusiasm of the class officers, many more men took an active part in campus organizations. The Debating and the Dramatics Societies, the Fraternities and other groups were well manned by Juniors.

With three fine years behind them the Class of '56 can look forward to an even better senior year.

Sophomore Class President

William Giffen learned to assume student responsibility as student-body president of the Union High School of his home town, Tracy, California. William has continued his responsibility as president of this year's sophomore class. One of the most important activities that his class has sponsored has been that of freshman orientation which resulted in a successful effort of the sophomores' seeing to it that Santa Clara's incoming class feel at home here. The sophomores also held the school's colorful Mardi-Gras. In addition, the sophomore class has instigated several successful social gatherings, such as picnics. William Giffen has good reason to expect much from his class.

Robert Mudd has taken an active and leading part in the dynamism of the Freshman Class. As student-body president of Orland Union High School which he attended in Sacramento Valley, Robert was well trained to take the position of president of his class this year. He has handled his newest job of leadership well. His whole class works hard, and with high spirit, to get a job done. Among other projects included by his class, some major activities have been the Freshman Dance, the St. Patrick's Day Mixer, and two class picnics, one at Alum Rock Park, and the other at Santa Cruz. There is no doubt in Robert Mudd's mind that his will be one of the greatest classes in one of the greatest of universities.

Edward Panelli
President

Under the able leadership of Ed Panelli, the association continued in the tradition and spirit in which it was created, a tradition which made it one of the more respected and better known student bar associations. Overseeing all the activities of the law school, and keeping faculty-student relations on the level of past years, the Association had a successful year.

The Annual Survey of California Law came from the students Moot Court Competitions, including a National one held at the law school itself, and the many other diversified activities gave the members of the Student Bar Association much to do.

Moot Court

Under the able leadership of Bill Campbell, the moot court committee handled the National Moot Court Competition in which the second year students participated, and the Freshman Moot Court Competition.

Liason

Traveling around the country, spreading the name of Santa Clara, participating in conventions and forming national school policies, Ed Farrell did much to further the prestige of the Law School.

Social

Putting yeast into the otherwise stolid life of the law student is the job of these committee members. Bernard Vogel, chairman, was ably assisted by Jeri Morissey in scheduling dances, parties, golf tournaments, impromptu get-togethers and coffee breaks after the Moot Courts.

Book

Directed by Co-Chairmen Bob Blake and George Martin, the book committee had one of its most successful years, both in easing the task of students acquiring books, and financial wise.

Moot Court Team

The three promising men pictured here spent many months in preparation for the national competition. They took a default from Stanford, but lost to Hastings Law School on their own home court. Hastings went on to win the division championship for the Pacific Coast, and prepared to go east for further wins.

Publicity Committee

Unsung efforts were put forth by members of this group, who kept the public, the legal profession, and the University informed of developments taking place in the Law School. The chairmanship was divided between Frank Burriesci and Robert Bolton.

Survey of California Law

For the sixth year, the law school set out to accomplish what no other law school in the state has attempted—to take a summary but adequate survey of the law in the state, as it developed within the last year. Chiefly responsible for its success, George Strong, editor, has quietly attended to his work, and deserves much praise for the work he has done on the book this year. Helping him was co-editor, George Martin, among others who contributed time and efforts. The survey of California law is just another way in which the Law School has made itself one of the most prominent in the state.

During its second year of operation under a new Constitution, the ASUSC directed itself toward solidification of this new government into a sound, unified body. Following a year in which the government was first put on its feet, this final trial year saw the amendment of the new Constitution and several other slight changes designed to bring a smoothly operating, efficient government more directly to the students. Representatives which at the same time completed the formation of a bicameral legislature, and the operation of ten active Student Congress committees, gave added impetus to the argument that interest was at an all time high.

Mature and beneficial programs were initiated and put into operation: the Student Loan, Theater Privilege Cards, Recruitment. Work was begun on others: Insurance, Faculty Evaluation. The Student Court was utilized to determine the guilt or innocence of students charged with minor violations, and used to interpret the Constitution in legal entanglements. All of these facts contributed to the indication that student government at Santa Clara was responsible, and growing more so each year.

The ship has been rigidly constructed; she has passed her maiden voyage; it is for future administrations to keep her afloat and to make what improvements possible.

Student Congress

Few colleges or universities can boast of a better student government structure than that of Santa Clara. The Senate and the House of Representatives have come to be respected as efficient and well organized governmental bodies.

This year Bob Williams, ASUSC president and Dick Jonsen, Vice-President, presided over the Senate and House respectively. Under their able leadership student government progressed greatly.

Because of the bicameral nature of the student government more students took an active participation. The House acted as sort of club presidents' council. In their meetings they coordinated the activities of the various organizations, assisted groups and established long range proceedings in other facets of campus life. The Senate met weekly to discuss general conditions on campus and to legislate when necessary.

House

Student Advisory Board

Every year a new group of youth engulf upon the Hallowed grounds which lie in the shadow of Mission Santa Clara. Four years hence those same aforementioned youth, having discreetly made use of the opportunities afforded them by the University, will depart not as youth but as men!

This, to a large extent, is the responsibility of the Student Advisory Board. Under the very able leadership of Chairman Arthur Hayes, and Vice-Chairman Al Reid, the board operated in many novel realms of endeavor. In addition to the traditional counseling of the freshmen class, the student board also undertook a tutoring program as well as detailed planning of the subsequent year's initiation procedures.

Student Court

The Student Court is composed of one Chief Justice and four justices, all of whom hold office for one academic year. Exclusive right of judicial review is vested in this body, and it possesses jurisdiction over all cases in law or equity arising over the Associated Student's Constitution, over the laws of the Student Congress, or over agreements made between the University and other institutions. Lastly, cases of discipline referred to it by the Vice-President of Student Affairs are within the jurisdiction of the Student Court.

Chief Justice Richard Schlemmer presided over the Court, and with assistance from Associate Justices Michael Flaherty, Frank Murphy, Herman Carmassi and Robert Wieand, greatly facilitated the operations of student government.

Perry Carter
Chairman

Social & Publicity Committee

The Publicity Committee here at the University of Santa Clara is a newly formed organization. Its purpose is to serve the many activities on campus as a herald, to let our own students and all of our other friends know about the different activities on the S. C. campus.

The Social Committee, under the leadership of Perry Carter, has turned in an outstanding job. The committee has been responsible in a large part for the entertaining and social life of the students.

Who's Who

The purpose of this year's "Who's Who" is to recognize and record the achievements of American College Student Leaders.

Their acceptance of the responsibilities of leadership have been recognized by their fellow students. Their Student Government officers have honored them by selecting their biographies to be among those representing more than 1,000 leading colleges and universities in this year's book. Through the annual publication of "Who's Who" a permanent record of student achievements is provided: a valuable reference educational institutions, vocational bureaus; business and social organizations.

The achievements of these students who have seized the torch of leadership will expand with the years. An inspiration to future student leaders . . . here are the leaders of tomorrow.

SANTA

The school year of 1954-55 witnessed a marked improvement in the weekly campus publication, The Santa Clara. With progress of the student press pervading throughout the first semester, Editor-in-Chief, Bud Scherrer, and Managing Editor, Bill Chambers, found little trouble in producing an accurate account of life here on the University campus.

Up-to-the-minute news, feature articles on some of the most important topics around the University, and sports highlights were put together in compact, four-page editions each week.

serves more than its share of praise and due credit must also be given to Rev. Richard Roberts, S.J., faculty advisor, and Robert Taylor, S.J., who acted as newspaper moderators.

Beginning in March of this year, Bill Chambers took over as Editor-in-Chief and initiated a move for more consistency in the paper. An experiment with a tabloid, smaller eight-page edition, was tried. Whether this policy change will continue next fall is yet to be decided. Nevertheless, The Santa Clara is definitely progressing with fresh ideas.

Perhaps the most trying task that a senior can undertake other than the Student Body Presidency is that of editor-in-chief of THE REDWOOD. Getting this annual publication to press and eventually distributed to a public which is for the most part unappreciative of the work put into it can give anyone a nice start towards a tidy collection of ulcers.

THE REDWOOD has never evolved smoothly. It is a Juggernaut which defies all but superhuman efforts in overcoming its initial inertia, and if neglected for a moment all momentum is lost and it will instantaneously grind to a halt. Producing it therefore involves a myriad of short shoves down the path towards the inevitable deadline.

This year Jim Gavigan has risked his sanity in seeing his baby come into the world on time and only with continual help of an enthusiastic and highly competent staff has it been possible to put this book into your hands.

BARRON HOLLAND, Co-editor

The Owl

Our University literary magazine, The Owl, has under the direction of Editors-in-Chief, Barron G. Holland and Arthur H. Hayes, Jr., achieved during the past year a periodical individualism most unique in kind. With a "Liberally conservative" selection of material, the publication has presented a wide variety of contemporary work from scholarly lectures to entertaining short stories. Art Editor William O'Donnell, with his singular and very professional techniques, Verse Editor James Trent with a well-balanced poetry selection, and Associate Editors for Business and Circulation, William S. Chambers and Robert Dohrmann have contributed to this success. We feel confident that this precedent will be followed by corresponding imagination and zeal in the years to come.

Owl Oratorical Contest

In one of the most outstanding OWL contests in recent years; with a speech that honored Arthur Vandenberg and his "honest candor on the high plane of great ideals"; for an intense, sparkling delivery, Donald H. Johnson became the first engineer ever to win top honors in the Owl Oratorical Contest. Don was the only senior in a field of five excellent contestants which included Duncan Fife, Paul Busacca, Sal Liccardo, and Peter Henriot.

Dramatic Arts Contest

"a well graced actor leaves the stage"

Let Shakespeare's words serve as tribute to a fine performance. Richard Jonsen's portrayal of Richard II, the indecisive monarch, fallen from power and out of fame, had all the quality and dignity and grace demanded by the role. Before his soliloquy came to its solemn close the audience realized that the winner of the William H. Leahy Prize for Dramatic Art stood before them, and also that an actor, in the true sense of the word, graced the stage. His interpretation, sensible and intense, wholly captured the imagination of the audience. Second place in this annual contest was awarded to Richard McLaren for his sensitive portrayal of "Henry V" and third place to Wes Ruggles for his excellent sketch from "The Male Animal." The other contestants included Paul Baldacci, Joseph Fogarty, Robert Shopes, Bob Gereke, Leo Donati, Richard Lucas, and William Horne.

Carrying through with the old Shakespearean slogan, "The Play's the thing," the Clay M. Greene Players, under management of newly arrived Dramatic's Director Edward J. Fitzpatrick, Jr., from the University of Colorado, the society carried on one of the fullest slates in its history.

At the opening meeting the members elected Duncan Fife, President; Wes Ruggles, Vice-President; and Jo Fogarty, Secretary-Treasurer. The officers pledged themselves to the institution of a new constitution which, when finally adopted this year, gave the Dramatic-producing organization full scope as a positive society.

Their productions brought the society out of debt, overcoming a $300 deficit; increased the theatre-going audience of the city as well as the university; and brought over 200 interested students into a program of theatricals which saw the "ship" active with Santa Clara participation throughout the entire year. With the introduction of season tickets, first class advertising, and a theatrical quality director Fitzpatrick marked his first year at Santa Clara with success.

A Pageant of the Nativity

Authenticity marked "A Pageant of the Nativity" the first full presentation of the season. Running three performances, an official Marian Year presentation, the adaptation of the Nativity episodes from the Medieval English Cycle Plays of Chester County required 46 dramatic personae, the University Glee Club of 21 under the direction of Mr. René Dagenais, and a stage crew of 18, to achieve its distinguishing reputation of excellent quality.

Director Fitzpatrick utilized the traditional style of medieval theatrical means in his technique for the story of the Birth of Our Lord. His over-all result was a skillfully developed production which drew as many of the townsfolk to witness the seasonal spectacular as friends and students, with congestion at the ticket booth holding the curtain each performance.

Alfred Reid and Barbara Ebner as Joseph and Mary, along with Joe Fogarty, Jim Flood, Paul Baldacci, Duncan Fife, Bob Greke, Daniel Sullivan, plus the entire company were given especially warm reviews by the San Jose Mercury-News critics, as was evidenced by the healthy crowds. The Glee Club achieved a new high in perfection for their professional quality work in the December pageant.

Shadow and Substance

Paul Vincent Carroll gave to his readers in "Shadow and Substance" an intimate and revealing view into the Irish soul. On the octave before St. Patrick's Day, Irisher Fitzpatrick gave to Clay M. Greene's audiences, through the medium of the university's most skillful actors, the exact same view Carroll's dramatic vehicle.

Using a straight set representing the interior of an Irish parish house, he brought out the best that was in each actor. Tom Farly, fascinated viewers and reviewers alike with his deft portrayal of the finicky Cannon. Joseph Fogarty and Kathleen Concannon administered their roles with equal effective perfection. Andrew Pierovich, Bill Horne, Hugh Coughlin, Dan Sullivan, and the young ladies from the Newman Club, Marilyn Barth, Joan Simonson, and Margo Behr, developed their roles with smooth efficiency and delicate balance that lended the proper proportion of light comedy and tight action which gave the performance its mark of professionalism. It was a show of great and unusual merit as the increase of theatre attendance indicated.

Thorton Wilder's great epic of America, "Our Town," brought from the 1600 who attended the two night run, acclaims as one of the most heart-warming and entertaining plays ever presented in the "Ship." Regardless whether one considers this slight exaggeration, the enthusiastic response to Director Fitzpatrick's curtain show for this year's season, evidences the continued high quality of his work since coming to the University.

Since no set was required by the author, it was up to the director to supply the proper effects necessary for a convincing presentation. This he did by the means of tireless training of the 50-plus actors and actresses and skill of his light and property direction.

With this final production, The Clay M. Greene reputation for dramatics at Santa Clara, one which maintained the traditional reputation of high quality at the Mission College. He built for himself an appreciative audience, and an interested undergraduate following, and even now making plans for the "55-56" season, which will surpass the successful season just completed.

With Fr. Patrick Donohoe as moderator, Santa Clara's International Relations Club moved to be an active group on campus this academic year. In hopes of understanding current domestic, national, and foreign political events, the club acted to bring this to its members in formal and informal meetings.

Under the direction of President Richard Quinlan, assisted by Dan Sullivan, Barry Holland, and Bob Sheehan, the club participated in many inter-collegiate discussions, in the annual student-managed model U.N. Assembly, at San Francisco this year, and in its own meetings, where the members heard speakers discussing the most current topics.

The Business Administration Association, can view with satisfaction the activities, of the 1954-55 school year. Under the able guidance of President John Miggins, the activities were brought to a successful close with a B.A.A. Banquet. Although the Association is designed to serve the business students primarily, its social program and many services have benefited the entire student body. In addition to its social and service functions the organization was able to bring representatives from General Petroleum, General Mills, International Business Machines and several other well known companies.

Proud of its record of achievements in both the social and business fields, the B.A.A.'s varied contributions to Santa Clara's campus life gave added impetus to the full development of the Santa Clara man.

Under the leadership of President Bob Chenu and Vice-President John Miggins, the Santa Clara Ski Club has grown to be one of the most active clubs on campus and one of the most successful clubs in competition with the surrounding Bay Area Colleges. Proudly sporting their parkas, Santa Clarans have made quite a name for themselves in the annual High Sierra interclub races held during the Christmas vacation.

Playing host to the young ladies from various Catholic colleges in Santa Clara's ski lodge, Hoy Fillet, the club took part in the couple's race as well as the interclub trophy competition. Secretary George Thompson, handled the entertainment for the many "snowless ski sessions" held on campus, while Treasurer Carl Hendreciks managed funds of the organization.

Delta Sigma Pi

In May of 1950, students of the College of Business Administration formed an organization which would add to their pre-executive experience and enjoyments. They received support and became the prestige gathering Gamma Xi Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi. This organization has the double role of furthering both the educational and social horizons of the businessman.

Through the leadership of President Jack Kiefer, the fraternity has sponsored forums of successful business college alumni, the well known field trips to view business in action, and great speakers who addressed the fraternity.

The success with which the Delta Sigma Pi has met is due in a large part to its two-fold purpose, namely educational and social enjoyment for its members.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, has firmly established its place on the organizational roster of Santa Clara's Associated Students House of Representatives. Eta Alpha chapter, Santa Clara's branch, though only seven years old, is part of an organization that has grown steadily for thirty years, so that 260 chapters are now listed from coast to coast.

Alpha Phi Omega is dedicated to service, and the fraternity members have been found ready and able to live up to this code of service. Of the projects completed throughout the year, the Student Bindex, the presentation of a bronze plaque for the Mission Cross and their serving as ushers are but a few of the services they perform as a national service fraternity.

"Scholarship, Service, and Loyalty to the University" make up the qualifications necessary for the honor and prestige of being a member of Alpha Sigma Nu. This fraternity is the Phi Beta Kappa of the Jesuit colleges and universities. Membership in Pi Delta Sigma, the University's Engineering Honor Society, is a goal sought by all undergraduate engineering students but achieved only by those upperclassmen who have maintained a standing in the upper fifth of their class. The fraternity's activities are traditionally inaugurated each semester with the initiation ceremonies and banquet. At this time, in addition to an outstanding academic record, aspiring members are required to present a short technical paper and an indication of their desire to perpetuate the organization's standards of Scholarship, Integrity, and Diligence.

The Santa Clara Sodality this year, placing emphasis on the social apostolate, sponsored many projects of a practical spiritual nature. A top Sodality undertaking was the teaching of Catechism. Sixty Santa Clarans taught eleven Catechetical centers. Another project sponsored by the Sodality, but participated in by the entire student body, was the Mission Drive to aid the California Jesuits on Formosa. $1,000.00 was raised each semester by the students.

The Sodality flourished in 1954-55 under the Prefectship of Jim Bowen. Other officers included: Pat Ellinger, Vice-Prefect; Dan Romero, Secretary and Tony Sauer, Treasurer. Rev. Roger McAuliffe, S.J., was Sodality Director and Mr. Richard D'Arcy, S.J., was Moderator. To sum up its work, the Santa Clara Sodality strove, through its many projects, to fulfill the main Sodality rule, "To Sanctify their own souls and souls of their neighbor."

With the presentation of "Freedom — A Weapon for Survival," the Associated Students' Lecture Series came into its second year—an age which, at Santa Clara, is sufficient to establish tradition.

The series, whose purpose is to "promote intellectual development, upon a practical problem" within the student body and the community at large, was begun in 1954 by the Associated Students, and stands as the sole participation of the students in the presentation of academic programs.

The two-man committee of 1954—Dick Jonsen and Tom McGuire—burgeoned into a committee with faculty and alumni representatives (Fr. Donohoe, Mr. Collins, David Kirby), and student representatives consisting of Seniors Dick Jonsen, Dick Lucas, Hugh Coughlin, Juniors Joe Ferguson, Tom Farey, Jos. Fogarty, Sophomores Bob Wood, Bob Wieand, Larry Terry, Bob Hammond and Roger Sullivan.

Reserve Officers

The school year 1954-55 produced some very marked changes in the Reserve Officers Training Program at Santa Clara. Passing from the scene, was Col. Michael Buckley who retired from the Army and his post as Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University. Also leaving the University in this year's graduating seniors will be the last class of Artillery trained cadets. After this year, Santa Clara will be exclusively a Branch General School. No longer will the cadet corps be 95 per cent future artillerymen as it has been for a very long —"long" time. One side feature to this is also interesting to note. Fort Sill, Oklahoma, will no more be fabled "Siberia" to Junior cadets off to summer camp. Instead, this "paid vacation" will now be Fort Lewis, Washington.

Col. Arthur H. Hogan

Training Corps

Taking the place of Col. Buckley this year was Col. Arthur Hogan. Almost immediately, the Colonel moved to keep and improve the high standards of Military Training left by Buckley. He instituted a special seven-week drill course for Freshmen cadets that was a large success, in making these new cadets, working parts of the corps in minimum amount of time. Col. Hogan also enlarged the Santa Clara Pershing Rifle Drill Team which has done so much to add prestige to the cadet corps throughout the area. He also enlarged the cadet band, and encouraged the use of rifle range cadets, other than the rifle team.

The national military honor fraternity of Scabbard and Blade, took the place of Saber Society, as the active military group in student affairs. This fraternity is widely recognized and we at Santa Clara are lucky to have it. We are also fortunate to have one of the best military departments on the West Coast.

Pershing Rifles

. . . "In order to encourage, preserve and develop the highest ideals of the military profession, to promote American citizenship." . . . Within this short quotation from the constitution of the Pershing Rifles National Military Honor Society, its aims and objectives are aptly summarized.

Composed entirely of freshmen and sophomores, the Pershing Rifles are a national organization named for the old General of the Armies commander; they are comparable to Scabbard and Blade Honor Society in the upper division.

Under the guidance of Cadet Captain Louis Souza and Sergeant Robert Alexander last year, the Pershing Rifles won the St. Patrick's Day Drill Competition held in San Francisco. But the duties and activities of this unit are more varied than just competition. Last year they acted as color guard at basketball games at half-time; they act as guard of honor at the function held at Mission San Jose for Our Lady of Fatima. At the commissioning Exercises, they act as ushers, color guard and guard of honor for the commissioning of the fledgling officers.

Wherever a highly organized, disciplined unit is required, the Pershing Rifles National Military Honor Society is ready; they have become the true embodiment of the aims and objectives of the ROTC program at Santa Clara.

Rally Committee

The Rally Committee, under the chairmanship of Wes Ruggles, provided the behind-the-scenes impetus to every major sports activity of the year. Besides their many successful publicity campaigns, such as the "Big Wire" and the Queen Contest, the committee also handled the car parades and post-game dances.

One of the biggest undertakings of the committee this year was the organization of the rooting section at all of the Santa Clara basketball games. All these events reflect the hard work and hours of planning which this group put in in order that the traditional Santa Clara spirit maintain its high level and high respect throughout the area.

FIGHT FOR SANTA CLARA

All hail to S.C.U.
Honor her prestige and fame,
Oh hold high her standards,
As we go into the game.

Chorus—
Varsity fight for Santa Clara,
Banners of red and white on high
No matter how great your foe man,
Let our motto be "to do or die."
Rah, Rah! Varsity men,
We are cheering for you,
Our fighting heroes, sturdy, staunch, and true;
Remember the right and might of Red and White
When Santa Clara Warriors fight
For Vict-ry, and our dear old S.C.U.

Code—
Then fight; fight! for the Alma Mater we love;
Oh fight; fight! and strength shall come from above;
We now acclaim your fame;
Rah! Rah! Rah!
(Repeat Chorus)

Cheer Leaders Bob Mori and Dan Romero

ANTHEM

Santa Clara! Alma Mater
Lo! our hearts are pledged to thee
El Dorado's first born daughter
Who beside the Western sea,
Where the palm and olive mingle,
Bade the torch of science burn;
When our footsteps bear us from thee
Back to thee our hearts we'll turn.

Chorus—
This the Mission Bells are telling
As exultantly they ring,
"Santa Clara," "Santa Clara,"
"Alma Mater," sweet they sing.
Where the palm and olive mingle
Proudly raise their heads on high
In the earliest fane of science
Built beneath our Western sky.

Block "SC"

Dan Modena

Although its ranks have been reduced because of the absence of Intercollegiate football, the Block "SC" honor society performed its functions this year in a way indicative of the type of men who are privileged to be its members.

Under the leadership of Dan Modena the society took charge of the Frosh initiation program and the regulation of campus parking. They also co-sponsored the highly successful after-game dance which followed the Queen Coronation and State-Santa Clara basketball game.

As in the past, this year's society was responsible for preserving and passing many of the traditions of the University. Their aggressiveness and spirit will long be remembered.

Coach Bob Feerick

After three consecutive NCAA Regional appearances, Santa Clara's astute Bob Feerick this season began the arduous task of rebuilding the Broncos' basketball empire. The job was made easier by the return of three four-year lettermen, Ken Sears, Dick Simoni, and Gary Gatzert. These men, who thrice participated in cagedom's finest hour, did yeoman work in providing the experience and finesse needed for a winning season.

Handicapped throughout the campaign by inexperience, the Broncos applied aggressiveness and spirit to engage some of the nation's finest teams on even terms. By the season's end the casabamen were a well co-ordinated and smooth-functioning team, reminiscent of the Mission teams of the past.

Basketball

The season marked the final play of All-American Ken Sears, who will go down in Santa Clara history as its all-time great in athletics. Records which he established will stand for years to come and are indicative of why he was chosen the first All-American of the CBA. Sears holds almost all the records and honors in the CBA besides all of the University marks.

His record includes:

CBA

Individual Scoring Record—41 points, against C.O.P., March 4, 1955.

CBA seasonal scoring record—290 points scored.

CBA individual free throw record—16 consecutive, against St. Mary's, February 28, 1955.

UNIVERSITY

Individual scoring for a single season—535 points, set during 1954-55 season.

Individual scoring record for four years—1566 points scored.

Individual free throw record—21, against Loyola, February 5, 1955.

NATIONAL

Most Valuable Player in Northern California—1953-54, 1954-55.

Most Valuable Player in CBA—1952-53, 1953-54, 1954-55.

First team of NCAA Regional Tournament's all-star team, 1951-52, 1952-53, 1953-54.

Outstanding Mainland Player in Hawaii Invitational Tournament, 1952-53, 1953-54, 1954-55.

Encounters with members of the Pacific Coast Conference this year saw the Broncos engage both of the divisional champions, plus one of the runners-up. Santa Clara opened the 1954-55 basketball season December 3 against the University of Oregon in Eugene. Ken Sears took up where he left off last year and put through 30 points to lead the Bronco cagers to their initial win, 58 to 48. The next evening at our "home away from home," Corvallis, Santa Clara yielded to a powerful Oregon State College squad, 34 to 39.

The next PCC opponent was UCLA, a game played at the Bruins' noted Westwood gym. The Broncos were unable to find the range and went down before the nationally-ranked Bruins, 39 to 74. Later in December a return match was held at the Cow Palace, with the Bruins squeezing by, 58 to 65. The Beavers of OSC were also engaged at the Cow Palace and the Broncos reversed the previous decision, 56 to 45, with Sears again showing the way.

January 28 the Broncos opened a Cow Palace twin-bill before more than 13,000 spectators. Santa Clara, displaying clutch ball control, defeated the California Bears, 66 to 59, in an overtime contest. Danny Ball turned in one of his finest efforts while hitting 20 points. It was the first victory for a Sears' lead quintet over the Golden Bears. The next evening, before over 8,000 fans, the Broncos lost to Stanford, 67 to 72. In the Broncos' losing effort Sears turned in another typical performance with 31 points.

Thus Santa Clara faced PCC teams seven times, winning three and losing four, a good record considering all teams were played either on their home courts or on a neutral court.

Pacific Coast Conference

University of San Francisco

Santa Clara's arch rival in the CBA, the USF Dons, ousted the defending champion Broncos this season and went on to capture the coveted NCAA Tournament crown. In the initial meeting the Dons jumped off to an early 13-0 lead only to see it vanish in the closing minutes of the first half as the Broncos assumed a 29-27 lead. However, an effective ten-minute stall in the second half netted the Dons' victory, 54 to 44.

A nine point SCU lead in the second game was wiped out in final twenty minutes as USF won going away, 66 to 52. The third game of the season was highlighted by the final meeting of All-American Bill Russell and All-American Sears, who had just been selected Northern California and CBA "Player of the Year." Sears out scored his rival 20 to 9, but Russell's more talented teammates overpowered the Broncos, to win 73 to 61.

San Jose State

Crosstown rival San Jose State was vanquished twice by the Broncos in the heated three-game series between the locals. Slow starting and inexperienced Santa Clara sustained the first loss of the series, 47 to 40, mainly on the strength of an effective twelve-minute stall employed by the Spartans. The pendulum of victory swung to the Missionites in the second encounter, 57 to 45.

The final and rubber game of the series was a wild and rugged contest, played before the third overflow crowd of the series in Civic Auditorium, which saw a sixteen point Santa Clara lead dwindle in the closing minutes to a three point, 60 to 57 win for SCU. Ken Sears with 27 points spearheaded the attack, with Montgomery contributing heavily on the boards, and Robinson, Gatzert, and Jenkins dominating the floor play.

Saint Mary's

For the first time since Bob Feerick began his reign at Santa Clara, the Broncos were able to sweep the three-game series from the St. Mary's Gaels. Final scores were 69-57, 71-51, and 84-72. The games were noted especially for offensive play as indicated by the results. That little extra zip so reminiscent of St. Mary's-Santa Clara rivalry was ever present.

Individual star for the Broncos, as usual, was the agile Ken Sears. In the final Bronco-Gael game Sears swished through sixteen consecutive free throws to topple one California Basketball Association mark. In addition his 40-point total in the same contest surpassed another CBA record.

Others who contributed to the Bronco scoring punch were Gary Gatzert and Dick Venezia. The latter, an unsung sophomore, put on a dazzling display of outside shooting in the second meeting of the series. Gatzert scored heavily in the final encounter.

College of Pacific

In three encounters with COP, Santa Clara won one and lost two. In the first game the Broncs lost in the closing seconds on an intercepted pass, as the Tigers turned the interception into two points and a 55 to 53 win. Santa Clara again came out on the wrong end of the score at Stockton, 81 to 79, although Sears contributed 39 points as he established a new CBA scoring record.

In the third game, which was the season closer for the Broncs, it was Santa Clara 92, COP 56. Sears closed his career in fine fashion in this game by breaking his own CBA record for the third time in the season. He scored his 41st point by dunking the ball with such force that he ripped the threads on the basket.

Freshman Basketball

Under the tutelage of Mickey Mount, veteran varsity casabaman, the Bronco yearlings posted an impressive 8-4 record. Displaying a pattern of both finesse and raggedness all season, the frosh showed themselves to be the strongest first year team in the area, as they captured the un-official CBA frosh banner.

Pace setters of the team were Captain Jack Jordan and Dick Harrison. Harrison led his teammates in the scoring department with a 14.2 average, closely followed by Jordan with a 13.6 average. Rounding out the starting five were Ray Paxton, Jim Kosinski, and Gary Gillmer.

Coach Chuck Bedolla

Early in the season the Santa Clara horsehiders labeled themselves as one of the teams to beat in the race for the coveted CIBA crown. The championship, which has eluded the Broncs for twenty-seven years, appeared to be within reach as they defeated their early season conference foes.

Leading the Broncos in the pre-league play, which saw them post an impressive 7-3 record over collegiate and semi-pro teams, were Dick Simoni, Ted Welp, and Dan Modena. Simoni and Welp are four-year veterans, while Modena was starting his third season as the Santa Clara catcher. Rounding out the senior quartet was pitcher Jack Noonan.

Freshman Baseball

Santa Clara's yearling horsehiders, with Dave Smith at the helm, look forward to a successful 1955 campaign. The squad possess a wealth of potential, but the Colts have had their troubles in getting under way.

Although the team had trouble in getting started, in recent games experience began paying off. With the hitting of Ed Allen, Jim Kosinski, and Mike Felice the Colts have gathered steam to overpower several leading junior college and high school teams.

Boxing

With Coach Pete Franusich providing the needed professional knowledge, the Santa Clara boxing team went undefeated as they registered the greatest season in history. Victims of the Broncos were California, $6\frac{1}{2}$ - $3\frac{1}{2}$, Cal Poly, 5-3, S. F. State, 5-4 and Stanford, 5-3, while Chico State managed to tie the Broncos, 4-4.

After the dual meet season the team went on to take fourth place in the PCI Boxing Tournament. Leading the team in the tournament were Co-Captains Bill Wiswall and Dave Van Etten, Art Crosetti, and Joe Salazar. Wiswall captured the crown in the 139 pound division, and from there fought his way into the semi-finals of the NCAA Tournament.

Wrestling

For the Bronco grapplers the 1955 campaign marked the most successful season in history. The record of two wins and four losses, though not impressive, is a great accomplishment when considered in the light that this was done without professional coaching.

The lion's share of the credit must go to senior Ade Eitner, coach and captain of the Broncs. Besides participating in the Annual Far Western Wrestling Tournament, the wrestlers also competed in the PCI Tournament with Eitner turning in the best performance by gaining third place in the 177 pound division.

Under the direction of Chairman John Ginella, the Intramural Committee provided the student body with a well-rounded and extensive program. Participation could be found in a variety of sports, ranging from football in the fall to the beach time sport of volleyball. Altogether the committee sponsored competition in eight sports, the majority of action taking place in the spring.

Highlighting the well co-ordinated and organized intramural season was intercollegiate competition between the king pins of Santa Clara and USF. The champions of the respective schools engaged each other in each of the major sports.
